DBS: Eligible children are aged between 2 and 6 years.

If your child is eligible for the DBS, you must choose whether to claim your benefits through the public system (such as the Queensland Government’s Child and Family Tax Benefit A) or through the private system (such as Child Dental Benefits Scheme).

Who is eligible?

A child is eligible for the DBS if they are aged between 2 and 6 years at any point during 2014 and receive a benefit within the benefits period.

What is the Child Dental Benefits Scheme?

The Child Dental Benefits Scheme (CDBS) is a dental benefits scheme that provides free basic general services to eligible children aged between 2 and 7 years.

Benefits affected?

If you choose to use your DBS, the benefits available will change.

Did you know that the School Dental Service operates in the public sector, while the CDBS operates in the private sector?
